Colonialism and its Brutality: The novella offers a unflinching look at the horrors of colonialism, exposing the exploitation and dehumanization inflicted upon the indigenous population of the Congo. Marlow's journey reveals the psychological toll of imperialism on both the colonizers and the colonized.

The Darkness Within: Heart of Darkness is not just about the darkness of the African landscape; it's also about the darkness residing within the human psyche. Kurtz's descent into madness symbolizes the potential for savagery and brutality that lurks beneath the veneer of civilization.

The Nature of Good and Evil: The lines between good and evil become increasingly blurred as Marlow travels deeper into the Congo. The narrative challenges readers to grapple with the complexities of morality in a morally ambiguous world.
